

We are committed to creating safe working environments to ensure the continued health, safety and wellbeing of our people. We are passionate about promoting the safe performance of our workers and that all our business decisions support our aim of Target Zero.

This will be achieved by:

- Complying with all relevant legislative and regulatory requirements, and other requirements specific to our business while regularly evaluating and reporting on our compliance obligations
- Consulting with our workers and encouraging participation to eliminate hazards and reduce health and safety risks and maintain a comprehensive and robust health and safety management system
- Recognising that our people, their attitudes, and beliefs are key to obtaining excellent health and safety performance
- Having a well-trained and competent workforce who are empowered to make safe choices contributing to, and participate in safe work tasks
- Engaging, supporting, and challenging our clients, supply chains and industry partners to improve standards of safety in our industry
- Continually evaluating and applying risk management processes to ensure continuous improvement of our health and safety solutions
- Empowering our people to make sound choices about their own health and safety and providing a workplace that supports them to continually challenge their work environment, inclusive of stopping work and discussing situations with their PWR manager if they feel unsafe.
- Continually applying innovative ideas and modern methods to reduce risk in our industry
- Collecting and reviewing our documented safety information to measure ongoing risks and ensure modern methods are applied and managed
- Consulting, collaborating, and empowering people at all levels of our business through our communication and consultation processes, to improve our health and safety performance
- Working collaboratively to set and achieve Health and Safety objectives which are documented in our Integrated Management System - Objective and Targets

All who work for PWR are required to fully support and promote this policy by complying with all health and safety requirements outlined in our safety management system.
